Sewer dilemma City must decide on repair plan

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

City leaders are facing a dilemma when it comes to sewer repairs.

The City Council is scheduled to decide next week whether the city or the homeowner should repair lateral lines in city easements that were damaged by the 1993 summer flood.

Hundreds of thousands of dollars could potentially be riding on the decision.

The cost of repairs to the city's main sanitary sewer lines that were damaged by the flood is eligible for 80 percent reimbursement by the Federal Emergency Management Agency.

At question is the eligibility of lateral lines — those running from homes and businesses to the main lines — that lie under city streets or in other easements and rights of way.

Joe Younge, city's contract administrator, the city's contract engineer, said that about 10 sanitary sewer failures associated with the flood and high groundwater tables — most of them in the Nameoki Sewer System — have occurred in lateral lines in city easements.

Some residents have experienced restricted flow of sewage because of the breaks, while others are completely without sewer service, Juneau said.

He said FEMA has told the city it will reimburse up to 90 percent of the costs associated with repairing those sewer breaks in laterals — if it has been the city's policy to repair them in the past.

If the city's policy has been to place the burden on the homeowner, then FEMA will not reimburse the city for repair costs, Juneau said.

"We have kind of a touchy situation here," Juneau said. He said that damaged sewer laterals place the entire sanitary sewer system in jeopardy because soil surrounding the breaks travels into the main line, damaging lift stations and creating holes or "voids" under main sewer lines.

When a void becomes large, the main sewer line has no bed to lie upon and subsequently becomes a high risk to bend or break, Juneau said.

"But FEMA has taken the position that they are not in the preventative maintenance business," Juneau said.

City ordinance appears to place the burden of responsibility for repairs to lateral lines, even those within easements and rights of way, on the shoulders of the homeowner.

But the city's past policy and practice is another matter, Juneau said.

Potentially, hundreds of thousands of dollars are at stake in the matter. The city has already repaired two such lateral failures after receiving a preliminary promise from

Hospital visits limited due to flu outbreak

Due to what they called a sudden and extreme increase in influenza cases in the Metro East area, officials at St. Elizabeth Medical Center are asking people to refrain from visiting patients other than immediate family members.

"Patient visitation at SEMC is discouraged for the next few weeks to keep from further spreading the virus," said Dr. Lawrence Harmon, chief of the medical staff at SEMC.

Currently, 50 percent of Emergency Room patients at the medical center are being treated for symptoms of the influenza virus, according to Patricia McNab, director of emergency services at SEMC.

"The difference between this outbreak and other flu outbreaks we have seen in the past is that this is a much more severe form of the flu. People are getting much, much sicker," McNab said.

"We are seeing a lot of patients who have developed pneumonia after getting the flu and have to be admitted to the medical center."

Despite the apparent pervasiveness of the illness, Granite City school officials said Wednesday that the district had not experienced a noticeably higher-than-usual absentee rate this week. But Thomas Holloway, director of secondary education for the district, said he would do a school-by-school analysis of attendance records on Thursday.

Hospital officials also offered the following tips from the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services on determining if you really have the flu or merely a cold:

✓ Fever: Rare in colds. Characteristic of the flu, high (102 to 104), sudden onset, lasts three to four days.

✓ Headache: Rare in colds. Prominent with the flu.

Buyout hopes get boost

Hopes for a buyout of Chouteau Island homes have received a boost with Madison County's receipt of additional federal flood-relief money.

The county has now received $737,000 in flood-relief funds from the federal Community Development Block Grant program. $456,000 of it came during Christmas week, county officials said this week.

"The money is for helping people with their housing issues first of all and also for some infrastructure work if that is deemed appropriate," said Jim Monday, county director of administration.

Specific projects will likely not be decided for several months, but the top priorities are Chouteau Island and Downtown Alton, Monday said.

Meanwhile, work has been delayed on repair of three breaches in the levee that protects the Chouteau Island. The Allendale Gravel Co. last week received a $500,000 contract from the U.S. Corps of Engineers for repairing two of the levees.

Although the company's contract calls for the work to be completed in 30 days, there is a provision for an extension based on bad weather, according to an official of the U.S. Corps of Engineers.

About 40 families were forced off the island in early July when floodwaters breached the levee

N. Granite close to grant eligibility

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

Only 13 eligible households stand between the North Granite neighborhood and an influx of $300,000 in federal grants for improvements.

Granite City Neighborhood Improvement Coordinator David Williams said Monday that, of 135 income surveys returned to Madison County Community Development, 80 have been determined to meet the low/moderate income requirements to qualify for Community Development Block Grant funds.

To qualify for the federal dollars, at least 51 percent of the households in an area must meet the criteria.

There are 209 occupied houses in the North Granite neighborhood, which means at least 107 of the homes must meet the income criteria for the entire neighborhood to qualify.

If the area qualifies, it would be eligible for the city's neighborhood improvement program.

The program targets a specific neighborhood each year and offers home inspections, low-interest loans, major infrastructure improvements and other amenities for a full year.

Mayor Ron Selph has tentatively agreed to target the North Granite area if it qualifies.

East Granite, the downtown neighborhood, Lincoln Plaza and West Granite have been beneficiaries of the program in past years.

If the 13 additional qualifying survey forms are completed, the North Granite neighborhood would also be eligible for other CDBG programs, which are designed to eliminate areas of blight and to stimulate employment.

In a separate matter, Aldermen Dan Farney and Foster Frederick, who represent the North Granite area, have also received a tentative commitment of $750,000 combined from the Illinois Commerce Commission and the Norfolk & Southern Railroad to build two new access roads in North Granite.

Remembering Dr. King March, service planned for Sunday

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

This area's 12th annual Martin Luther King Jr. birthday march and service will be held Sunday beginning at 3 p.m.

The Rev. John Henry Williams, march organizer, said violence-plaguing various neighborhoods shows that Dr. King's dream of freedom is needed now more than ever.

Sunday's march will begin at 3 at Market Street and Little Alley and will proceed through Madison and Venice, ending at the New Salem Missionary Baptist Church, 1349 Klein St., Venice.

Williams said groups, organizations, schools and individuals are encouraged to join the march.

A special ceremony will be held at 4 p.m. Sunday at the church, where proclamations will be read from the mayors of Venice, Madison, Granite City, and area school districts, groups, the Venice-Madison NAACP, the Venice-Madison Ministerial Alliance and other organizations.

At 4:45 p.m., there will be a special service featuring the Rev. John H. Rouse, pastor of the Mount Zion Missionary Baptist Church, East St. Louis. Rouse is active in many community and civic groups and is chairman of Gov. Jim Edgar's Task Force on Municipal Finance.

Rev. Williams said the event will focus on the impact of drug abuse.

"More than the Ku Klux Klan, more than all the lynchings in history, more than all the years of slavery, illegal drugs are destroying Dr. King's dream by destroying family bonds," Williams said.

"Dr. King said we should all come together as a family, but drugs are destroying the family bonds. Drugs have pitted parents against children, brothers against brothers, and cousins against cousins. Family love is gone."

"If we ever needed to keep the dream alive, now is the time. We need to be free now."

Williams said that in a few short years the illegal drug trade has done something civil rights movements tried to do for many long centuries — completely tear down racial and economic barriers.

"Drugs are taking down black and white, rich and poor. It makes no difference to drugs."

"Drugs have taken a dream and turned it into a nightmare," Williams said. "But we've got something just as strong. We've got love. If we all love one another as brothers and sisters, we can bring everybody up. Black and white, rich and poor, everybody."

Williams said the yearly march began a dozen years ago as a "tribute by Venice and Madison to a man of God" and has grown larger each year.

Last year, the event was expanded to include

State police issuing warnings on new auto headlight law

Drivers will get a little time to focus before police crack down on a new headlight law, Illinois State Police Director Terrance Gahner said. Officers are making the public aware of the new law by issuing written warnings during January. They will toughen up the enforcement with tickets beginning in February.

The law, which went into effect Saturday, requires headlights to be on at any time windshield wipers are on. It is designed to increase visibility and safety during bad weather.

Gahner said the new law is a matter of public safety. "We understand that it will take a while for drivers to become aware and to adjust to it, but on Feb. 1, the law will be enforced just as vigorously as any other traffic offense."

But written warnings on the headlight law, like those issued for other traffic offenses, will continue to be an option for any officer, State Police spokesman Eric Westphal said.

"Two years from now, he may opt for a warning if he feels it is proper," he said.

"We are looking for compliance to make the driver safe. We are not out there to issue tickets," he said.

"Voluntary compliance is a beautiful thing," he said. "So far, there has not been enough bad weather to give police a chance to issue warnings."

"I don't think we've had enough inclement weather to get enforcement going," Illinois State Police safety education officer Bob Jones said. State Police have no early statistics on compliance.

"We may have given out a few warnings in some parts of the state, but they go into the computer and won't be out until next month," Westphal said.

"The new law allows police to stop drivers for the headlight offense alone," Westphal said. "If the wipers are on and the headlights aren't, it's a traffic offense like speeding. A ticket means a minimum $75 fine," he said.

Many drivers are already beginning to turn on the headlights any time they get into the car. It's a good driving defense, Westphal said.

Police chiefs relate problems

By Brian Gross
Staff writer

Police officers say they are doing their job of getting criminals off the streets, but once it's out of their hands, the criminal justice system falls apart.

Prisons are too crowded and fail to rehabilitate criminals, thus the courts have no place to put criminals, and probation officers are reluctant to take on cases.

That's the biggest problem law enforcement faces, local police chiefs told Rep. Ron Stephens, R-Troy, Wednesday in O'Fallon. Stephens arranged the meeting to see what changes could be made in the law to make the job easier for police.

Although no one had answers to the larger issue, several suggestions were made on smaller problems. Improving the lines of communication would be among the simplest and most helpful changes, police said they are prevented from identifying gang members and notifying other communities, and the flow of information within the courts needs to be opened. Juvenile crimes also need to be handled differently.

Stephens said a recent poll of his legislative district prompted him to meet with police. Usually the polls show education and taxes as the top two concerns, each running about 12 to 15 percent. But the most recent poll found crime far and above the top concern, at 17 percent; no other concern was in double figures.

Wayne Watson, an Illinois State Police captain for District 11, said criteria needs to be established for defining a gang member, and a tracking system should be set up.

"If a certified gang member from St. Louis moves to Springfield and sets up shop, there should be a way of notifying them," Watson said.

The state also needs to fund more task forces, which have been successful at pooling police resources, and allow them mobility to pursue gangs, not just chase them out of one community and push the problem on another, he said. Lebanon Police Chief Mike Donovan said the gang problem has moved into smaller towns such as his. Gang members pass through on U.S. 50 and stop at the Hardee's restaurant.

The gang ones are being influenced, and there's no way of controlling it," Donovan said. "We're also seeing crack houses pop up, but we don't know how to address it."

Stephens said perhaps a report card system, similar to the one developed for school systems, should be considered for the courts.

"A lot of common sense has been thrown out of the courtroom," Stephens said. "We're not going to legislate anything to turn around society

But maybe we can do some small things."

In discussing juvenile court procedures, Watson said they are out of sync and were intended more to keep shifting charges from following someone around as an adult, where the charges are being caught eight times with a handgun, such information should be applicable in the later.

"Kids grow up faster now," Watson said. "A lot of 14-year-olds are out there. They're killers and should be treated as adults."

Other areas of juvenile confidentiality need to be broken down, as well. Mascoutah Police Chief Kevin Gordon said if he breaks up a fight between teens on a Friday night, he should be able to report it to the school so officers know the about the problem on Monday morning. Likewise, school files should be shared with police.

But the topic that attracted the most attention was prison space. O'Fallon Police Chief Don Slaznik said the government is contradicting itself by providing money for 100,000 new police officers while refusing to build more jails.

"We're doing our job, but once you get them to the point of jail, that's what you need to deal with," Slaznik said.

Troy Police Chief Robert J. Noonan said jail space needs to be freed up so judges have some place to put criminals. "The punishment means," Noonan said. "We've created an environment that's better than the one criminals are enjoying when they're free. We have legal rooms in prisons where they can become scholars and learn how to drag out appeals. We are successfully rehabilitating them when they're making them better criminals."

Gordon said the criminal justice system is not functionally well as a system. "It's not a system at all," Gordon said. "We don't rehabilitate criminals anymore. The name of the Department of Corrections should be changed to Department of Detention. The rights of the criminals have too long been put above the rights of the citizens."

Another official, Ronald J. Vizer of the Madison County Sheriff's Office, said he believes the time has come again when people are upset enough to make real changes. In the 1950s, crime had gotten out of hand, Vizer said he remembers. But the public decided to clean it up, and police were given the manpower and equipment in the 1960s to do it.

"Now crime is back up, and there's an outcry again," Vizer said.

Stephens said the state should build as many prisons as needed. But alternatives could be considered such as working inmates on shifts and rotating their sleeping schedules to get more use out of cells.

Stephens said he would draft legislation based on the suggestions and meet again in a few months with the chiefs.

Tables turned on Klan

SPRINGFIELD — A Ku Klux Klan rally at the Statehouse is being used to raise money for groups opposed to the Klan's philosophy.

Lindley Weisbaum Seltzer, a Springfield school principal, organized the effort. He solicited pledges for each minute of the KKK rally Sunday.

Seltzer calls the effort "Project Lemonade, because what is sour can be sweet."

The money raised will go to the Anti-Detention League of the B'nai B'rith, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People of Springfield and the Southern Poverty Law Center's Teaching Tolerance Project.

"We've decided the method for placing discriminatory organizations at a disadvantage is by making their efforts counterproductive to their philosophies," Seltzer said.

Project Lemonade is supported by the Sangamon County Democratic Party, Secretary of State George Ryan and U.S. Rep. Dick Durbin, D-Springfield.

"Instead of going face to face with these Ku Klux Klan folks, what we are doing is saying we will respond in a much different and positive way," Durbin said. "The longer these kooks want to rattle on with their message and hatred, the more money will be raised for groups with a more positive message."

Fledge forms have been distributed in 20 states, Seltzer said.

A demonstration is planned to protest Martin Luther King Day, according to Basil L. Sitzer Sr., a Springfield Kluk who identifies himself as the "Grand Titan" of the Knights of the KKK.

Sitzer said he expects the rally to last about two hours. He said the fund-raiser will have no effect on the outcome of the rally.

Durbin emphasized the need to ignore the Klan and said plans by anti-KKK groups to protest the rally will only bring more attention to the Klan.

Two Chicago groups, the Partisan Defense Committee and the Movement for People's Assembly, have permits to conduct rallies at the Capitol on the same day.

Ex-candidate charged in theft

James E. Bailey, 30, of the 2200 block of Harding Boulevard, was arrested at 9:31 a.m. Jan. 6 on a felony warrant charging him with theft of more than $300 value.

Bailey posted bond on the warrant and is free awaiting trial.

Bailey was one of 10 candidates for mayor in the citywide election last April. He finished eighth in the field.

According to an information, Bailey had possession of a battery charger and engine analyzer that had been taken from Hutchings Service Station, 1420 Niedringhaus Ave. in a Dec. 24 burglary.

Bailey is not accused of participating in the burglary.

'Hidden talents'

Mounds staff contributes pieces to show

By Nicole Vaughn
Staff writer

While some of the pottery and artwork to be found under the roof of the Cahokia Mounds Interpretive Center this month may resemble some of the historic pieces the site is known for, don't be fooled.

Pieces for "Hidden Talents II," weren't made by the Native Americans who roamed the Mounds centuries ago, but by the hands of some who know the site nearly as well: staff and volunteers.

"A few years ago some of the volunteers had some talents nobody knew about," said Bill Isenminger, public relations director for the Cahokia Mounds State Historic Site. "We thought it would be neat for everyone to see."

And the show, "Hidden Talents," was born.

This is the second time for the exhibit, hence the "II" in its title. It debuted two years ago with about 90 pieces. This year's display — which runs through April 12 — features about 60 pieces, Isenminger said. There is only one real restriction regarding what workers can bring for the show. "They can bring anything as long as it's something that wasn't in the first show," Isenminger said.

Some artists have submitted pieces in a completely different medium than what they did for the first show, while others have even submitted varied works for this show.

Susan Wilson of Collinsville submitted three very different pieces: an embroidered sampler, a framed Indian bead piece, and a wind chime that uses an animal's jawbone as its focal piece.

Through the works, employees and volunteers often discover sides of their co-workers they never knew existed.

"I see things in there and I find out who did it and I'm always surprised," commented Lina Williams of Collinsville on the display. "These people really do have hidden talents."

Williams, who works in the museum's gift shop, submitted a crocheted afghan for this year's show. For the original show, Williams submitted a cloth picture and a plastic calendar.

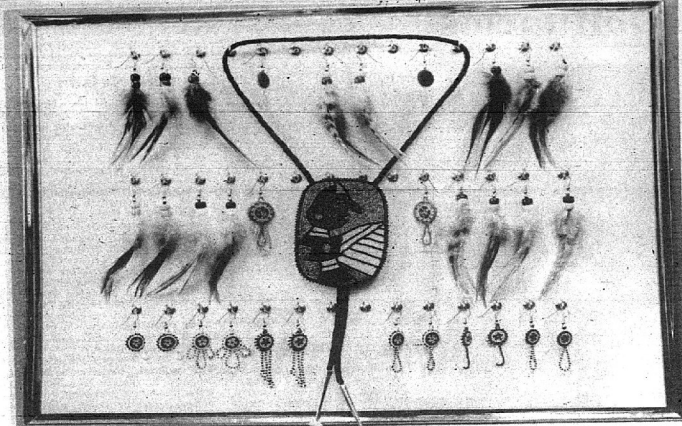

"I just wanted to turn in something different," Williams said. "I was already working on this afghan, so I just hurried up and finished it."

For Jackie Ishum, a senior aide from Pontoon Beach, the show is a first. She submitted a ceramic piece she made about a year ago depicting a lone Indian on his horse, romping in the snow.

"I think most people have something they do that turns out to be a talent or an art, although they may not think so," Ishum said.

Even Isenminger, who has coordinated both shows, had something to contribute. For him, this year's piece is an oil painting of a falcon.

Other pieces in the show run the gamut. They include jewelry, weaving, sculpture, poetry and models of aircraft including rockets.

Temperatures absorbed as illness cause

By Neal Learner Staff writer

Closet contact among people in poorly ventilated rooms is not only a cause of illness but also the cause of most illness in the winter months, a local doctor says.

Patricia Nelson, a physician and lung specialist at Overland, Mo., Medical Clinic, said she has seen a "huge number" of patients suffering from respiratory illnesses this winter.

She attributes the number to the fact that many people are forced to stay inside during the cold weather and that germs quickly spread in the stagnant indoor air.

"Most of the respiratory illnesses are highly contagious," Nelson said. "The thing that spreads it the most is by people coughing."

People who offers some simple advice to avoid giving one's cold to others:

• Cover your mouth when coughing or sneezing.

• And wash your hands frequently.

There is little risk of contracting a cold by using a telephone after a sick person has used it, Nelson added.

"If the mucus dries out, (the bacteria) die," she said. "It's best to avoid spreading the mucus through the explosions (of a cough or sneeze)."

People who are suffering from a bad cold or flu should call a doctor if their symptoms do not improve in 48 hours, Nelson advises.

This year's flu outbreak hasn't hit its full force yet, Nelson said. People should have received their flu shots earlier this fall, but not too late to get one, she said.

Voter legislation to be discussed

Edwardsville attorney and Madison County Clerk candidate Stephanie Robbins will discuss ramifications of the new federal "Motor Voter" legislation on Edwardsville radio station 1080 WRXT-AM Friday, Jan. 14, at 9 a.m.

The WRXT talk show, "Legal Line," hosted by attorney Bill King, invited Robbins to analyze how the National Voter Registration Act—better known by its nickname, "Motor Voter"—could affect election law at the state and local levels.

Robbins, handicapped by current County Clerk and State Senate candidate Evelyn M. Bowles to succeed her in the Clerk's post, has been an attorney in Edwardsville since graduating from St. Louis University Law School in 1976. Robbins has represented the County Clerk's office in legal matters at the request of Madison County State's Attorney Bill Hane.

The County Clerk's office is directly responsible for the management of elections in Madison County.

Lawyer King has hosted the "Legal Line" talk show on 1080 AM for the last four years, interviewing attorneys, judges and other professionals of the Illinois legal system on current issues in the law. King works out of his own private practice in Edwardsville.

Other aldermen have said that it is unrealistic to place the burden of such expensive repairs on the homeowner.

The City Council is expected to make a decision Tuesday night.

Fire district may sue over annexations

It's not so much that part of the idea that if they come in there, they're probably going to gobble up Highway 40 and all those businesses down there," Redmond said.

Casper Nighossian, attorney for the State Park Fire Protection District Board of Trustees, said the board has instructed him to "research the matter."

He said he will advise the council of Collinsville and Fairmont City that the district is going to oppose annexation that adversely affects it.

Nighossian said he hoped to send letters this week to officials in both Collinsville and Fairmont City.

He said annexations by both communities affect the State Park Fire Protection District by reducing the size of the district and the amount of tax revenue available to fund the State Park

THE LAW AND YOU

By RICK REED
Attorney At Law

This column has previously discussed the advantages of a husband and wife holding assets in joint tenancy. The major benefit is that upon the death of the first spouse, the asset held in joint tenancy will pass to the surviving spouse without the necessity of probate. What happens, however, when assets are owned individually by one spouse, and he dies prior to creating a joint tenancy with the other spouse? An attorney in a case such as this will have to decide whether the estate needs to be probated or whether probate can be avoided.

Recently a woman came to this office and indicated that her husband had recently died without a will. At the time of his death, they owned real estate in joint tenancy, but the family car and the bank accounts were in his name alone. He had meant to transfer these assets into both names before his death, but this was never accomplished.

The wife in this case wanted to sell the cars and close out the bank accounts. However, she did not know how to transfer a car which was in his name alone, and the bank would not release the money to her when her name was not on the account. It should be noted that the combined value of the assets owned individually by her deceased husband was less than $50,000.

The widow in this case needed a small estate affidavit. This document allows for the settlement of an estate without probate where the gross value of the personal property does not exceed $50,000. In many cases, the husband and wife will hold the real estate jointly, but certain personal property, such as an automobile, will be in one person's name alone. If the surviving spouse will have a small estate affidavit prepared, she can get the assets transferred to her name individually.

In our example, the widow could take a small estate affidavit, the car title, and a copy of the death certificate to a license and title service and have a new title issued in her name individually. With regard to the bank accounts, the bank should release the money to her upon presentation of the small estate affidavit. It should be noted that this procedure is generally not applicable where the deceased spouse owned real estate individually. A small estate affidavit cannot be used to transfer the title to real estate to the surviving spouse.

Books unravel grant writing mystery

Area non-profit groups, charities and scholars can now unravel the mysteries of grant writing with a new set of reference books housed at Southern Illinois University at Carbondale.

"In the past, grant writers had to travel to Springfield to find the entire collection in one place. We're pleased to be able to bring these valuable resources to Southern Illinois," says Marianne Lather, who manages the collection for SIUC's Office of Economic and Regional Development.

The 16-volume set, known as the Foundation Center Collection, includes indexes to thousands of grants plus concise listings on hundreds of thousands of U.S. foundation.

A $1,500 corporate gift from the Illinois office of GTE North Inc. made the acquisition possible, Lather said.

Detailed entries indicate: areas of foundation giving, types of available support, specific limitations, past grant recipients, and application information. The set went on the shelves Nov. 1.

Supplemental books provide valuable tips on proposal writing and presentation, foundation regulations and ways that groups can better their efforts through improved public relations.

Other books zero in on gifts related to arts and culture and health issues.

The S. William Ettinger Award

The S. William Ettinger Award is a prestigious honor presented annually to an individual in the state of Illinois who has exemplified the highest degree of dedication and service to the Illinois Probation and Court Services Association. This year's winner is Madison County's Joanne Spencer.

Over the next few months, Lather will host free, half-day workshops — on and off campus, to acquaint people with the reference material.

The collection is housed in the library of the Southern Illinois Small Business Incubator, 150 E. Pleasant Hill Road, on the southwest edge of SIUC's campus.

SIUE Rivers Project gets Kellogg Foundation grant

The Rivers Curriculum Project located at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville has received a $50,219, five-year grant from the W.K. Kellogg Foundation of Battle Creek, Mich.

The grant will train middle school teachers in the hazards of groundwater contamination. The new program, which will begin in January in the Rockford area, is co-sponsored by the Illinois Farm Bureau and the Illinois Department of Energy and Natural Resources.

Robert Williams, professor of curriculum and instruction at SIUE and director of the rivers project, will also coordinate the groundwater training program. More than 20,000 students from 250 high schools in 23 states currently participate in the rivers project, which has received grants from a number of sources, including the National Science Foundation.

Williams said the groundwater program will be expanded to the Peoria area in the second year and to the Madison-St. Clair-Monroe-Randolph County area in the third year. Middle school teachers will be trained to recognize the hazards of groundwater contamination and to help find appropriate solutions.

Groundwater is the primary source of over half the nation's drinking water, Williams said. "Pollution of this valuable resource decreases the amount of water available for our use, therefore forcing us to turn to river water, which itself may not be safe."

"As the population grows, so does the pressure on the nation's water supply. Students must be educated to help protect and understand how they will impact water in the future. Groundwater is not an issue people normally face or take action on, but it is one of the many environmental issues that must be dealt with during the 90s."

Williams said the groundwater project is an off-shoot of the rivers project which was initiated three years ago by teachers and students at eight high schools to monitor the water quality of local rivers.

The interdisciplinary study involves science, social studies and English.

Dupo's Maser might be looking to Collinsville

Sorry for the play on words, but here's a footnote to the recent high school holiday basketball action.

On the same day, I attended boys games at Collinsville and Columbia, where I took time to speak first with Collinsville High athletic director/basketball coach Bob Bone and later with Dupo High football coach Gary Maser.

THE OBJECT of my attention was trying to find out if Maser, a spectator at Dupo basketball games at Collinsville, is in line for the varsity football position at Collinsville.

Neither Bone nor Maser would comment, Bone indicated that applications had been received, but he was not revealing names, and Maser indicated nothing.

Apparently, mid-February is the time when the Collinsville board will begin considering outside applicants for the position vacated last fall by Bob Hollingshead, who resigned after 10 years.

The normal procedure for such vacancies is for the school board to open applications within the district first and then accept outside applicants.

AFTER WATCHING Collinsville go 9-0 last season and 14-7 the past 10 seasons, it seems logical that Kahoks officials would want to look to a winning program. Something Maser has done for 14 years at Dupo.

It also is no secret that when Belleville West sought a replacement for Bruce Arnold four years ago, Maser's name was at the top of the list until Dick Hood of Rantoul gained the position.

"A former quarterback at West, Maser is a fiery competitor and has been very good for the Dupo school and community. However, as a former player in the Southwestern Conference, he must realize the big-school environment would offer a new challenge."

Would Maser consider the move?

AS A COACH myself, I've often wondered if changing jobs (schools) is necessary as a guarantee of betterment.

The Collinsville school board, meanwhile, must wonder what it must do to right a football program of which even Hollingshead said "has gone down to where I'm not satisfied."

Who could be satisfied with a winless season, a point total of 46 compared to 290 by the opposition and a 1-26 record the past three seasons? The school's last on-the-field conference victory was 20-14 over Belleville West in 1987. A teachers strike at Granite City in 1988 accounted for another league win.

Maser? Were 14 Collinsville board members, I'd find out if he's interested. If so, go after him immediately to allow time not just to generate interest, but fill the vacancies left by Hollingshead's assistant coaches (John Ostank and Gene Catalpa), who also will not be returning.

NET NOTE: First-year Dupo boys varsity basketball coach Jim Thompson has brought a new touch to the sidelines.

The Tigers coach sports a long bath towel over his left shoulder during games. The color is maroon, that of Dupo, but the towel also has his name inscribed.

The only time he removed it in a loss to Gibault of Waterloo was after he was assessed a technical foul.

Warrior run chases Comanches

Mosby outburst leads Granite City to 66-58 win

By R.J. Gerber
Staff writer

It was simply too much for Larren Mosby for visiting Cahokia on Tuesday night as the Warriors knocked off the Comanches 66-58 in a non-conference basketball game.

Mosby, the Warriors' 5-9 senior point guard, went wild in the second quarter as Granite City began a 29-8 run, which spanned parts of two periods and put the game out of reach.

WITH GRANITE CITY trailing 21-19, Mosby scored 13 consecutive points in the second quarter on a variety of drives and pull-up jumpers. Mosby, who hit for a game-high 30, finished his personal run with a 3-pointer. Teammate Jason Black then scored off a pass from Mosby, who fouled, and sank the ensuing free throw.

Black's conventional three-point play came at the 1:11 mark of the second quarter and gave the Warriors (6-7) a 33-24 lead. Cahokia's Dony Jackson added an offensive putback to get the Comanches (2-8) to within seven points, 33-26, at the half.

But Granite City quickly dashed any hopes of a Cahokia comeback, nailing seven of its first eight shots from the field in the third quarter. Black and Corey Wallis accounted for 14 of the 16 points in that stretch.

The Warriors were up 49-31 when Wallis sank a layup at the 3:39 mark of the third quarter, ending an eight-minute run that started in the first half. Cahokia got to within 12 points, but the game was never really in doubt after the third quarter.

"I thought that (the Comanches) thought they were beat, but then they got a little fire under their bells," Granite City coach John Van Buskirk said. "We were up 18 and it was smooth sailing and then it got down to 12 and we had to hold onto the ball a little longer."

CAHOKIA TRIMMED the Warrior advantage to a dozen with a makeshift lineup on the court. Senior center Shannon Dowell went to work inside for the Comanches, scoring 13 of his team-high 16 points in the second half.

The Comanches used their size advantage in the early going to get several offensive putbacks, and they outscored the Warriors 35-22 for the game.

But it was Mosby, one of the smallest players on the court, who came up with the biggest effort.

Besides drilling Cahokia for 30 points, Mosby had six rebounds and seven assists.

"Mosby did whatever he wanted to do against us," Cahokia coach Roscoe Dowell said. "We tried three different guys on him and he just broke us down. We didn't have anybody to step up and stop him or take a charge."

The Warriors took their biggest lead of the game when a Mosby pull-up jumper gave Granite City a 58-39 advantage with 7:21 to play.

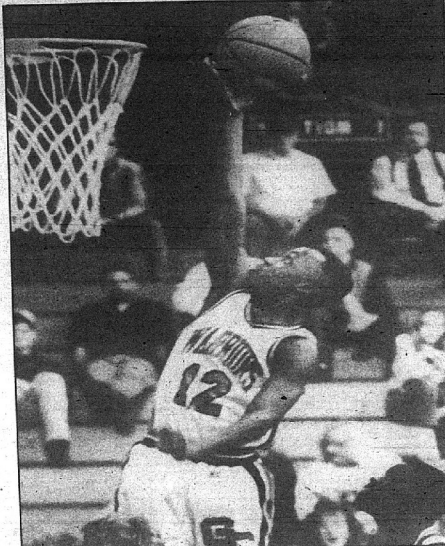

A QUICK 3-POINTER by Cahokia's Era Sillas, a putback by Dowell and a layup by Stan Williams got the Comanches to within 12, but Mosby scored five in a row — including a three-point play, when he was fouled on a drive to the hoop with 2:07 to go.

After taking just two shots in the opening period, Mosby took over in the second quarter.

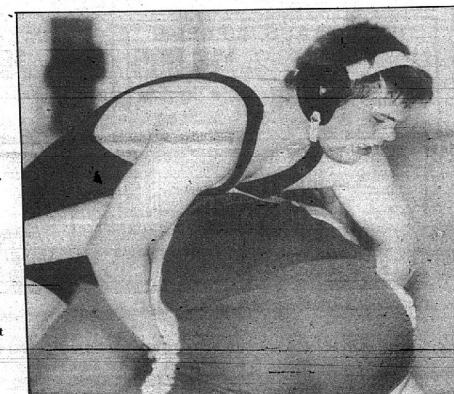

"Coach (Van Buskirk) told me to start getting my shots and I just felt hot, so I kept shooting," said Mosby, who was surprised to learn of his personal 13-point string.

The Warriors had only four players in the scoring column, but it proved enough as they inched toward the 50 mark. Black complemented Mosby's effort with 19 points. The two combined for 74 percent of Granite City's offense.

Granite City made 23 of 48 shots from the field, 48 percent, while Cahokia hit 44 percent (23-52) of its shots. The Comanches turned the ball over 20 times compared to Granite City's 12 miscues.

Larren Mosby goes up for two of his game-high 30 points in Tuesday's game.

Loaded Geneseo field to put grapplers to test

By Mike Kelly
Correspondent

Mike Garland and the Warriors are always looking for a new challenge.

They will get their wish this weekend. Hopefully, they haven't been off more than they can chew.

Granite City High, ranked No. 1 in the area and an honorable mention in the state's Class AA poll, travels north Saturday to participate in the 19th Annual Geneseo-Danmarr Wrestling Invitational. The 12-team field includes such state powers as Chicago Mount Carmel (ranked No. 1 in Class AA) and Providence New Lenox. Three Iowa teams — Cedar Rapids Prairie, Iowa City High and West Des Moines Dowling — are also listed on the card.

BUT GARLAND WELCOMES the challenge.

"This will show us just where we stand with the competition up north," he said. "That's why we got into this tournament. The timing is just right because this tournament is only three or four weeks away from the regionals.

"I have a lot of confidence in my kids. They've put together one heck of a season, but we need to test ourselves a little more. I want to see how we do against the best up north."

The field at Geneseo is loaded with talent. In last year's tournament alone, there were six individual state champions and 23 state place finishers.

Team-wise, Mount Carmel won the Illinois dual championship in Class AA. In Iowa, Cedar Rapids Prairie was second, Iowa City High was fifth and West Des Moines Dowling was seventh in the Class AAA tournament.

"NO QUESTION about it, those teams will be a handful," Garland said. "But we're not going up there in awe of the competition. We're going up there to wrestle. The bottom line is winning or losing with us, and our goal is to finish as high as we can in the field."

Cagers hoping to match up with Alton

By Tony Panozzo
Staff writer

It's not often that the Granite City basketball team enjoys an advantage in size. But the Warriors will match up at eye level for a change Friday night when they play host to Alton in a Southwest Conference game.

THE WARRIORS, whose tallest starters are 6-3 forward Corey Wallis and 6-1 center Rob Wallace, have struggled against bigger opponents this season. Coach John Van Buskirk hopes to see that change against Alton, a smaller team that relies more on quickness and athletic ability.

Still, Van Buskirk has other concerns about the speedy Redbirds.

"They're small, but they're real quick and they score a lot of points," Van Buskirk said. "They present other problems for us."

"They run the ball up and down the floor. They're going to be able to score quickly. I

Maroons escape in overtime, 59-55

Cavaness, Lady Warriors fall short against Belleville West

By Tony Panozzo
Staff writer

After pushing Belleville West to the limit in regulation, the Lady Warrior basketball team expired in overtime and suffered a 59-55 loss to the host Maroons in a Southwestern Conference game Tuesday night.

The Lady Warriors led for most of the game and took a 38-33 lead into the fourth quarter before withstanding a comeback by Belleville West to force an extra period. But the Maroons outscored the Lady Warriors 6-2 in overtime and capitalized on several Granite City turnovers down the stretch for the win.

Belleville West improved to 6-9 and 3-2 in conference play. The Lady Warriors dropped to 10-5, 3-2.

WE HAD a couple bad breaks down the stretch," Granite City coach David Weller said. "We just made some poor judgments. We made too many turnovers when we needed to get back in the game and that hurt."

High turnout makes fishing show a success

The Let's Go Fishing Show held Jan. 7-9 at the Gateway Center in Collinsville caught the interest of thousands of area anglers.

"We had a very good turnout for the three-day event, and it looks like this will become an annual show," said show organizer Steve Lengyel of Lengyel Consulting in Granite City.

Show visitors were treated to pro seminars, plus boat and fishing tackle exhibits each day.

"People really enjoyed having a chance to get out and talk fishing," Lengyel said.

He added that nearly all of the exhibitors at the show have signed up to return in 1995. Next year's Let's Go Fishing Show is scheduled Jan. 6-8 at the Gateway Center.

"This was the very first year, and since it was so successful and so many exhibitors are returning, we will be able to expand and offer even more fishing tackle and related products in 1995," Lengyel said.

Lengyel concluded this year's success will allow the show to expand into another wing of the Gateway Center in 1995.

"The expansion will offer more room for additional exhibits and attractions," he said.

The top three teams will receive trophies. Individual awards will be handed out to the top five place finishers in each weight class.

T.J. Slay (125 pounds) of the Warriors is a solid contender to bring home a medal. Tim Fulkerson (119) and Chris Hogan (112) should also be seeded at the tournament, and like Slay, have a good shot at placing.

Granite City already has won two tournaments this year, the Springfield Tournament and the Holiday Tournament. But Garland has his eyes on the postseason tournament, which begins Feb. 5.

"I don't know how those guys will do up there because we haven't seen the competition," Garland said. "They just have to go into every match with the right attitude. I want them to respect their opponents, but I want them to wrestle those people without holding back."

"But the important thing is how we approach the field in general. This tournament is two times better than our Holiday Tournament. A good showing will aid us in the postseason. I'm not worried about a psychological letdown, especially if we don't do well. This team has faced adversity all season and with great success."

Proper clothing key to enjoying the outdoors

Keeping warm in the winter-time out of doors depends upon many factors. Getting cold in the winter-time outdoors simply is a matter of being out there.

Being cold takes the fun out of being out. But being comfortable when the weather is miserable brings a measure of satisfaction to the party that is separate from all other successes.

COMFORT DEPENDS upon the specific weather conditions and upon the activities at hand. For example, the late season upland game hunter is mostly on the move, while the late season goose hunter or winter fisherman is mostly standing or sitting still. The fisherman also usually is out in the wind much more than others, especially if he's in a boat.

Missouri's archery deer season ended with the old year. However, it taught me a lesson as it ended which will help with my goose hunting and even winter fishing.

Cold hands and fingers are the nemesis of any outdoorsman. But for the fisherman and for certain kinds of hunters, bulky gloves or mittens are impossible. I recently started shooting a string release with my bow — which definitely doesn't work well with heavy gloves.

Yet I hunted when the thermometer was in the single digits in comfort. How? I used one of Cabela's Handwarmer Mitts.

My daughter snickered a bit when she heard I was using mitts. Those are for little girls. And wide receivers in the NFL. And smart old hunters and winter fishermen.

THIS MITT SELLS for 18 bucks and is made of fleece, lined with Thinsulate and soft nylon. It's warm by itself. Toss a couple of those chemical heat packs in there with your frigid digits — and things soon are toasty warm.

I'm planning to use it for waterfowl hunting, too. I don't like gloves when I'm trying to foot a call, but tucking your hands into a mitt hung around your waist is handy and warm.

Winter fishermen can't keep their hands inside the mitt, but when their fingers get so cold they can't stand it, a quick warm-up is readily available.

But hands aren't the only concern.

Feet and especially toes also get cold without much effort. I wore a pair of old Marine Corps cushion-soled woolen socks next to my skin, topped with a heavier pair of socks woven of wool and DuPont HoliFib 808. Over the socks I wore a pair of boots insulated with 400 grams per square inch Thinsulate and waterproofed with Gor-Tex. Toasty.

BOWHUNTERS DEMAND silence from their clothing. Rustling nylon or other materials will spook deer that are very close. I retained the heat around my body by wearing polypropylene longjohns, chambray cloth shirt and pants, a hooded sweatshirt (with the hood around my neck), a down vest and Cabela's Thinsulate and Dry-Flux lined fleece coveralls.

I always resemble the Pillsbury Dough Boy, but with all of those clothes on, we were almost twins. But I was warm.

In fact, I was warm enough to take a nap against a tree — and it was nine degrees Fahrenheit.

However, I don't bundle up like that when I'm walking a great deal. Perhaps a lightweight set of polypropylene longjohns, a chambray cloth shirt, briar-proof canvas britches and light boots over light woolen socks are enough.

Unlined deer skin gloves protect the hands from cold and briars while allowing enough flexibility to handle a firearm.

Activity generates heat, inactivity doesn't.

OUT IN A bog or even wading, winter anglers can take a beating from the wind. A thick woven garment, usually nylon, will help turn the wind. A Gor-Tex or similar liner will keep you dry in the rain or snow and also helps turn the wind.

Early in December, I hunted in temperatures that didn't drop below 20 and felt like I was going to freeze to death. Because the wind cut through my woolen clothing and polypropylene undergarments. If it's windy, block it — or get indoors.

Of course, a good hat or cap is a must. Large amounts of heat escape from the head. I'm fortunate that my ears don't get cold and I like to hunt with my ears as well as my eyes — so I don't cover them. However, good caps with ear flaps or stocking-tees will go a long way toward keeping

East Side's DeMarcus Chapman ruled ineligible after appeal

DeMarcus Chapman will not be reinstated by the Illinois High School Association.

The IHSA on Tuesday denied an appeal by East St. Louis Senior to keep Chapman eligible to play basketball. IHSA executive director Dave Fry last week ruled that Chapman, a transfer from Belleville East, was ineligible because his reason for transfer — to live with his widowed grandmother (his legal guardian) in East St. Louis — was not valid.

The IHSA notified East Side officials of the appeal ruling Tuesday by fax. Athletic Director Art May said he couldn't comment about what's next for Chapman.

"They upheld the decision to keep (Chapman) ineligible,"

May said. "But I felt they would do that because it's all political."

One of the members of the board, Fred Curtis, is the principal at Belleville East, which turned in the matter to the IHSA.

"We feel like there is a double standard as long as Mr. Curtis is up there," May said.

Jermaine Perkins, who along with Chapman came over from Belleville East, was ruled eligible after East officials challenged his eligibility as well.

East Side is 10-3 this season, but stands to forfeit every victory because Chapman, the Flyers' second leading scorer and rebounder, has participated in each game. But May said other options will be explored.

Future brides, moms flock to style show at SIUE

By Ellen Drenkhahn
Correspondent

A standing room only crowd of 900 people attended the Seventh Annual Bridal Fair and Style Show held Sunday at Southern Illinois University in Edwardsville.

The event was sponsored by Libby's Bridal and Formal Wear of Alton, Collinsville, and Granite City.

THE SHOW got off to a rousing start with upbeat music and energetic models.

"What's really hot this year is tuxedos," said Libby Knoche, owner of Libby's.

"Tuxedos have become conversation pieces — with patterned vests in colors, novelty prints, and bold black and white prints. The newest thing is the Fumagalli shirt, which requires no bow tie," Knoche said.

The young men modeling the tuxedos drew cat calls, whistles, and applause from the crowd as they pranced down the runway.

"I don't remember the guys looking this good when I was in high school," quipped Knoche as the guys disappeared behind stage.

KELLY Steiner and her mother, Janet Steiner of Collinsville, attended the bridal show to get some ideas for Kelly's wedding, planned for November.

"I really don't have a clue about ideas for my wedding. That was why this show was so appealing to us. I'm mostly interested in looking at the dresses," Kelly Steiner said.

In addition to the style show, more than 30 exhibitors selling goods or services for weddings were on hand to hawk their wares. Everything from wedding cakes to flowers to honeymoons were offered.

Kathy Hamilton, of Shirl-K Floral Designs of Granite City, was passing out fresh pink carnations and advice to prospective brides.

Many brides are choosing silk flowers, which can be preserved or displayed in bouquet boxes as keepsakes. Even though silk flowers are hand-wrapped silk blooms are being used more often, lending an elegant touch to the bridal bouquet, there is nothing like a rose — real or silk — to say love.

"ROSES are still the most popular flower used at weddings, whether they are fresh or silk. We have a red velvet silk rose that is really impossible to tell from the real thing — unless you touch it," said Hamilton.

Wedding planning should include the cost of budgeting for flowers, cautioned Shirl Kibort, owner of Shirl-K.

"The cost of flowers will depend upon the size of the wedding party, whether the bride uses fresh or silk flowers (which generally cost more), and the amount of decorating done in the church and reception hall."

"For an average size wedding with three or four attendants, a bride can expect to spend $400-$500, not including the flowers used for decoration," Kibort said.

Mary Ann Siekmann and her recently married daughter Theresa Leehr, both of Collinsville, attended the show with Melissa Castelli. Castelli will wear Siekmann's son's new tuxedo.

"To get the best deals on accommodations and pricing, a bride couple should start planning their wedding trip six months to a year in advance, especially for those island resorts and cruise packages," Siekmann said.

If money is tight, budget honeymoons can be planned.

Three of the most popular destinations are Tan Tara Resort and Branson in Missouri and French Lick, Ind., which offers the slow pace of an older resort spa atmosphere.

Parents of the bride and groom are also getting the travel bug as well, said Biernmann.

"It's not unusual for Mom and Dad to book a vacation after the wedding to unwind and relax themselves. Let's face it, they probably need it more, too," laughed Biernmann.

JULIE Augustine of Edwardsville and her mother Linda Augustine of Glen Carbon are beginning preparations for Julie's October wedding.

"We heard about the bridal show and thought it would be a good way to spend an afternoon together. We already hooked the photographer and the disc jockey, but I still need information for the honeymoon, the cake, and my first priority — my wedding dress," Julie Augustine said.

"The whole bridal show centers around the wedding gowns. We will show 160 gowns in little more than an hour. If I don't show a dress at the show, it can't be found in this area," Knoche said.

What's new this year in bridal fashions is a return to past creations, updates for the '90's. Fabrics like brocade, tulle, velvet, chiffon, tulle, taffeta and satin are fashioned into breathtaking gowns.

"There is no one look for wedding gowns. With some of the fabrics available today, the simpler the gown, the more elegant it is, like in the case of the brocades," Libby's owner Knoche said.

"That is a fabric used in the past that is making a comeback. It offers a wide variety of pattern choices that are sensual, soft and flowing."

BEFORE the show, Augustine said she was uncertain what type of gown she preferred. Afterward, she said she couldn't wait to try on an ivory gown she saw in the show.

"It's so hard to decide. I like ivory gowns with straight lines and fitted bodices with lace and pearls and my mom likes white dresses with big skirts. It'll be fun trying them on."

Government rules result in fewer jobs: economist

By Roger McGrath
Correspondent

Economist Murray Weidenbaum gets right to his point: "The sad, hard fact is that more people would be at work if government were a less conspicuous force in the American economy."

Government laws, rules and regulation raise the cost of hiring people, and thus, discourage the creation of new jobs, said Weidenbaum, a professor at Washington University.

He ticks off the counts in his indictment:

- Civil rights legislation costs business $236 billion annually, equal to 4 percent of the gross domestic product.

- Workers' compensation insurance adds $55 billion a year to employers' costs.

- A 10 percent increase in the minimum wage trims employment 1 percent to 3 percent.

- Court rulings that have led to filings of more wrongful termination lawsuits have, in turn, caused business to trim employment 2 percent to 5 percent.

- Mandated health-care coverage as proposed by President Bill Clinton will cause employers to cut 3.1 million jobs.

Then there are proposed reforms at the Occupational Safety and Health Administration. If approved, the package will cost the American economy nearly $82 billion a year, a figure representing 11.8 percent of 1990 net business income, Weidenbaum said.

Weidenbaum doesn't oppose the goals of eliminating discrimination, protecting workers, aiding the disabled or other social policies, he said.

"Rather, quite unwittingly, much of the government's social legislation has been written in a way that is oblivious to its negative impact on employment," he said.

"The direct cost of existing employment mandates imposed by the federal government has risen far faster than wages and salaries," he said.

Federal mandates tallied 3 percent of total wages and salaries in 1980, a portion that jumped to 7 percent by 1990, he said.

"The indirect costs of employment regulations — many of which are both substantial and hidden — all share a common character: either they make adding workers to the payroll more expensive," he said.

That could partially explain the slow employment rebound. The number of jobs lost in 1992 was 1.1 percent annually since 1991.

"That is far below the rate of employment growth during typical recoveries," said Weidenbaum, a chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers during former President Ronald Reagan's administration.

Some fast-growing companies are now freezing employment at 49 workers to avoid provisions of the Employee Retirement Act, which applies to companies with 50 or more employees, he said.

Enroll now for Medicare's medical insurance

By Bill Hunot
Social Security Administration

If you're eligible for Medicare but have not enrolled in Medicare's medical insurance (Part B), you can sign up during the annual general enrollment period (GEP) of Jan. 1 through March 31.

The GEP is a second chance for people who have not enrolled or those who enrolled but later dropped Part B. If you enroll during the GEP, your coverage will begin in July.

Part B of Medicare covers doctors' services that include office visits, surgical services and diagnostic tests that are part of your treatment. It also covers outpatient hospital care and medical equipment such as wheelchairs, crutches, oxygen equipment, etc.

Don't worry about the GEP if you still are working and covered by your company's health insurance program. When you retire, you will have a special enrollment period of seven months to apply for Part B with no penalty or lapse in coverage.

Q. When I got Social Security I was told that I would continue to get credit for my wages for as long as I worked. The first two years (1987 and 1988), I did get an increase in my checks because of my additional earnings. My local Social Security office has told me that, starting in 1991, my earnings will not increase my benefits. Why is this?

A. Social Security checks the earnings records every year of people who are getting benefits. If additional earnings show up on a record, Social Security's computers recompute that person's benefits to include the additional earnings. If a higher amount is shown, that new amount is sent automatically.

Your 1989 to 1991 earnings did not make a difference in your benefit. Here's why: Your Social Security benefit, like the benefits of all other retirees born in 1925, are based on your 31 highest years of Social Security-covered earnings after an adjustment for inflation. Your 1987 and 1988 earnings are among your highest 31, so they increased your benefit.

But your earnings since 1988 are not among your 31 highest years, so they did not affect your benefit.

Q. I've been unable to work for three years now. My doctor told me on my last visit that I need to apply for disability. How do I go about it? Where do I go and what will I need?

A. Call 1-800-772-1213 today. Social Security will help you fill out the necessary forms over the phone and then mail them to you. You never have to leave the comfort of your home. Have the names, addresses and phone numbers of doctors, hospitals and clinics that have treated you.

Q. I am 57 and I receive Social Security disability benefits. When I turn 62 or 65 will there be any increase or decrease in my Social Security amounts?

A. If you remain disabled until age 65, you automatically will be converted to a Social Security retirement benefit. Since you are starting retirement benefits at 65, your benefit will be your full unreduced Social Security.

The benefit you get now, as a disabled person, is also your full unreduced Social Security.

So although technically your benefit will change from disability to retirement at 65, the amount will not change.
